

ForeverDads

– strengthening families one dad at a time.

ForeverDads encourages, educates and equips men to develop positive relationships with their children, family and community.

James McDonald

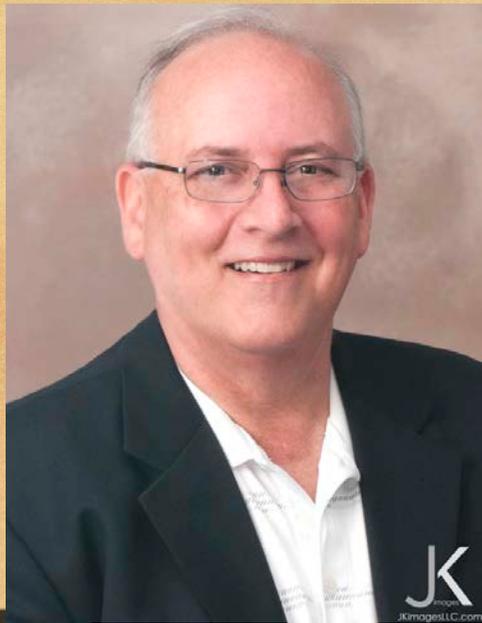

James McDonald – the Founder of ForeverDads, pioneered the way in which our community views services to fathers and families – he reaffirmed that “Fathers Matter”.

Through his over 35 years in the mental health service field at Six County, Inc., of which he is now the Executive Director, he saw the generational pattern of how father absence impacted the family structure.

From this vantage point, began the Muskingum County Fatherhood Initiative which became ForeverDads – the goal was to celebrate and strengthen fatherhood. The end result is that children would be raised by a healthy father and mother.

While we have much work to do, through his continued leadership as now immediate past president of the ForeverDads Board of Directors, he has continued to wave the banner for our community to become engaged in our efforts.

Burl Lemon

Through the oncoming leadership of Burl Lemon, ForeverDads became a not-for-profit 501©(3) in June 2006. The formation of a Board of Directors and the continued cooperation with the Family and Children First Council, this organization was on its way to become the unique entity it is known as today.

Built on the free enterprise model concept, Burl picked up where James left off. Through developing community partnerships that would multiply the strength, corral the resources and expand the horizons of programming, activities, events, fundraising projects and community collaboration for a standalone community-based nonprofit Corporation.

Due to the continued investment of the Ohio Commission on Fatherhood through grant funding, private and public foundations, church and community as well as private sector donors and other grant opportunities, we have continued to become self-sustaining.
